

BEE Procured

The Ideal Procurement Database

ECONO BEE

Preferential Procurement is one of the key elements making up a BEE scorecard accounting for nearly one quarter of the entire BEE Scorecard. A company earns BEE points through dealing with BEE compliant suppliers. In many cases, through experience, we have realized that as simple as it sounds, most companies find it difficult to access their suppliers' scorecards. This results in lost BEE points. Not only do they lose points, but also so much time and money is lost chasing each and every vendor for their scorecard. We have therefore introduced the BEE Procured Database.

BEE Procured Database is a simplified web-based system that organizes scorecard data for those companies looking or searching for their suppliers' BEE credentials. It allows for data mining and analysis, intuitively through a web-browser and it provides instant access to over 11 000 companies with scanned, downloadable scorecards available.

All that's needed is a web browser, there's nothing to install, maintain, or worry about backing up.

Data Storage and Retrieval

The BEE Procured Database acts as an archive through storing data in strict confidence whereas ensuring that it is readily available for use only to authorized members. The database allows the user to effortlessly find and extract data (scorecards) for the purposes of calculating Preferential Procurement points. As highlighted above, there are over 11 000 scorecards and the database continues to expand more and more with each and every member joining. In essence, it brings to your disposal a large pool of scorecards and thereby saving you time, energy and very importantly money.
