

Conference: Practical Sustainable Development and Reporting

Sustainable Development and reporting on sustainable development is becoming more and more important to businesses.

The aim of any business is to generate sustainable profits. The goal of sustainability is to achieve this while also minimising adverse impacts on society and the environment. Corporate Social Responsibility initiatives form part of a larger strategy of sustainability.

Introducing the first EconoBEE Practical Sustainability, Reporting and Business Conference, presented in conjunction with Kulima Solutions, will highlight the opportunities for your business to embrace the goals of sustainability. This introductory course will include an overview of the key concepts of sustainability.

The key outcome of the course will be a roadmap for developing strategies and implementation plans for sustainability within your business.

This conference will help you identify opportunities for your business by making Business Sense out of Sustainable Development
